

SYMBIO TESTING AS A SERVICE WHEN SERVICE AND QUALITY GO HAND IN HAND

Quality assurance is more than just testing

Symbio TaaS is a service model in which the customer entrusts a certain testing phase or all the quality assurance activities to Symbio.

Good planning as well as efficient quality assurance and testing reduce costs, help find errors and problems at an early stage and accelerate access to the market.

Our service model can be built either on a team of experts based entirely in Finland or on a combination of a Finnish onsite management and the Chinese team, which brings scalability benefit. Our international service model enables a yet smoother progress of customer projects. You'll benefit from the western mindset of our Chinese team, comprehensive proficiency and the Follow the Sun model because our Asian team can continue testing when it's night in Finland.

Symbio TaaS is the best option when

- you are planning to develop a challenging product or service.
- you want to have an external quality assurance partner to ensure compliance with chosen quality functions and standards.
- you want to increase productivity. When your product is tested at all stages of product development, the errors can be found and fixed faster.
- you want to accelerate your product's access to the market.
- you have multiple projects, which have different kinds of quality assurance needs.
- you want to focus on your own strengths and outsource the quality assurance to an experienced and reliable partner.
